

Monthly Factsheet

SUMMARY OF APPROACH

Alliance Trust aims to be a core equity holding for investors that delivers a real return over the long term through a combination of capital growth and a rising dividend. The Company invests primarily in global equities across a wide range of industries and sectors to achieve its objective.

The Company's investment manager, Willis Towers Watson, has appointed a number of stock pickers with different styles, who each ignore the benchmark and only buy a small number of stocks in which they have strong conviction. Therefore, we believe investors get the benefit of both highly focused stock picking to increase potential outperformance versus the benchmark and manager diversification which should reduce risk and volatility. We believe that the Company's diversified but highly active multi-manager portfolio is competitively priced.

Risk warnings

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future returns. The value of shares and the income from them can rise and fall, so investors may not get back the amount originally invested. Net Asset Value ("NAV") performance is not the same as share price performance and investors may not realise returns in line with NAV performance. Exchange rate changes may cause the value of overseas investments to go down as well as up and can impact on both the level of income received and capital value of your investment. Investment trusts may borrow to finance further investment (gearing). The use of gearing is likely to lead to volatility in the NAV, meaning that a relatively small movement, down or up, in the value of an investment trust's assets will result in a magnified movement, in the same direction, of that NAV. This may mean that you could get back less than you invested or nothing at all.

Investment Commentary

For the month of July, the Company's Total Shareholder Return and NAV Total Return were 1.1% and -0.1% respectively, while the MSCI All Country World Index (ACWI) benchmark was flat.

Over the month, the Company's most significant single contributor to return was Alphabet, with the A shares delivering an absolute return of 9.7%. The parent company of Google announced record revenue and profit figures for the quarter, with Google advertising revenue increasing by almost 70% to $50.4 billion, which exceeded analysts' expectations. This increase in revenue was driven by an increase in advertising spending as consumers continue to shop online during the pandemic. In contrast, Chinese multinational technology company Baidu was the most significant detractor from performance in July, returning -19.6%. The share price of the stock fell as investor confidence in Chinese technology stocks continues to be suppressed by regulatory uncertainty.

Despite recent falls, the Company's stock pickers continue to have strong conviction in Baidu and believe it is significantly undervalued.

Within the Company's portfolio a position was established in Adyen, a Dutch payment company. Adyen operates a worldwide payment platform that is a novel piece of commerce infrastructure powering the global internet economy. We believe the business's technology, in addition to its operational infrastructure and partner ecosystem, provides a wide competitive moat which is strengthened by the virtuous cycle of share gains, more data, and better risk decisions. In contrast, the Company's position in Tencent Holdings was sold during the month given our stock picker's reduced conviction in the stock relative to more attractive risk-adjusted opportunities elsewhere.

Over July, the Company's level of gross gearing was marginally increased to be in line with the central target level of 10%.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future returns. The mention of any specific shares should not be taken as a recommendation to deal.
